CHAPTER IX FINAL ACHIEVEMENTS AND A FINISHED LIFE Growth of the School--The Fire in looi--Pneumonia in the School--The Typhoid Epidemic of 1902--The Breaking of John Meigs Health--Visits to Bad Nauheim--Letters Concerning the School and Its Future--Death in 1911. THE last decade of John Meigs life and work at The Hill was marked by much achievement and also by much trial. In December, 1900, another large and handsome building containing recitation rooms on the first floor and rooms for the boys on the floors above, and called the East Wing, had been built at right angles to the schoolroom on the side opposite the quadrangle. During the Christmas vacation in December, 1901, it caught on fire in some undiscovered manner between the time when the night-watchman left and the time very shortly afterwards when the first servants arrived from outside the buildings. Since the boys and masters were away there was no one in the building, and the fire, when it began, was unseen until too late to check it. A high wind was blowing, and the building burned fiercely; and though the work of the men employed at the school and of the town fire department kept the blaze from spreading to the other buildings, the East Wing itself was almost completely destroyed. In the midst of the fire there happened a little incident which showed with a kind of delightful vividness the way in which John Meigs spirit could rally and find...
