Dillingham, 1839-1910, Teacher, Minister in the Society of Friends, Editor So far as possible it has been the effort in this volume to make John H. Dillingham write his own life. He left little if any material designed for that purpose. The habit of his Harvard training to have a common book in which he wrote a first draft of every exercise, theme, or letter, clung to him in measure through life. These books have been preserved and although there is one hiatus of nearly fifteen years in which there is no record, each distinct period of his life is represented. In addition, his mother preserved the bulk of his college letters, and of those received in the four or five years following his graduation. All this material has been most kindly entrusted to me by Mary P. Dillingham and her daughters. They have very properly retained those records that relate to themselves. Thus, it is possible to present material of greater value even than an autobiographical record would be. Having been written without a view to publication, it is perfectly natural and spontaneous. There need be no apology for printing such a life. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
